SCHLEY'S DEMAND.

Asked For a Full Investigation of MacLays Libelous Charges.

Secretary Long Will Name a Court of Inquiry And Open Court Will Be Held.

Washington, July 24.—Secretary Long this morning received a letter from Rear Admiral Schley, calling attention to the criticisms against him which are contained in MacLays "History of the Navy," and the innuendoes which have appeared in the press for several days, and stating that, in his opinion, the time had now come to take such action as would bring the entire matter under the "clear and calm review of his brothers in arms." He asked that the department take such action as was deemed best to accomplish this purpose. He also requested that whatever action be taken should occur in Washington, where his papers and data are stored.

The Secretary immediately decided to comply with Admiral Schley's request, and dictated a letter to the Rear Admiral saying that under the circumstances he heartily approved of his action, and that the department would proceed at once in accordance with his request.

Although no positive declaration has been given on this point, it is assumed about the Navy Department that Admiral Dewey will be president of the court which will inquire into the whole controversy concerning the actions of Admiral Schley during the Spanish war. There also is an impression that the two other members of the court will be retired naval officers, or at least officers who have had no connection with the Santiago campaign. The selection of retired officers would have a double advantage. Not only would they be free from any prejudice growing out of their active connection with the department, but they would have no fear of future consequences arising from their course while members of the board.

The court of inquiry will probably not proceed with its work until fall. Secretary Long said today that it would be unfair to ask a court of inquiry to convene in Washington during the present extreme hot weather for the prosecution of an inquiry which promised to be quite protracted.

MRS. SARAH A. HUFF

Relieved by Death After Many Months of Suffering.

Mrs. Sarah A. Huff died at 11 o'clock p. m., Wednesday, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. P. Fears, on West Seventh street. She had been ill for several months with dropsy and was a great sufferer.

Mrs. Huff was 74 years old and had been a member of the Methodist church for a long time. She was a lady held in the highest esteem by a large circle of friends.

The funeral was preached at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Rev. G. W. Lyon, of Madisonville, and the interment took place in Hopewell cemetery.

MARKET IRREGULAR.

No Fine Leaf Sold and Lugs Shade Lower.

The tobacco market opened up unsatisfactory this week and continued very irregular throughout the sales. No fine tobacco was sold and lugs were a shade easier. No one seems disposed to offer good leaf, and the market is strictly one of the low grade tobacco. The entire offerings this week were inferior in character and off in order. Sales amounted to 446 hogheads.

JUDGE GOODNIGHT.

Falls a Victim to Typhoid Fever
Wednesday.

Honorable Career Ended at The Early Age of 52
Years.

Franklin, Ky., July 24.—Circuit Judge I. H. Goodnight died at 5 o'clock this afternoon. His body will lie in state at his home in this city Friday. Great crowds of people have visited the dead jurist's home to show their respect.

Funeral services will be held in the Cumberland Presbyterian church at 5:20 o'clock Friday afternoon, after which the burial will take place in Green Lawn cemetery.

The death of Judge Goodnight creates a vacancy in the Judge's office in this, the Seventh judicial district. Simpson, Logan, Todd and Muhlenberg counties make up the district. This vacancy will be filled by appointment by Gov. Beckham. The appointee will hold office until a Judge is elected in November and qualifies.

Judge Goodnight's Career.

Isaac Herschel Goodnight was born in Allen county, Ky., January 31, 1849, son of Isaac and Lucinda (Billingsly) Goodnight.

In 1870 Herschel Goodnight moved from Allen county to Franklin, Simpson county, Ky. He was graduated from Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn., in 1872, attended the law department of the same institution till 1873 and entered on the practice of law in Franklin in 1874. He represented the county of Simpson as a Democrat in 1877-78 and took a high stand both as a member of influence and ability and of personal popularity. In the same body was Gen. Abe Buford, many years his senior, but such an attachment sprang up between them that Gen. Buford, then at the head of the turf in Kentucky, named one of his favorite race horses which proved a winner for him.

After becoming a leading member of the bar in his judicial district he was in 1889 elected to the Fifty-first Congress and re-elected to the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses, serving six years from 1889 to 1895. In this position he enjoyed more than a local popularity and influence, his personal qualities supplemented by his recognition as among the ablest representatives from Kentucky. Ill health compelled him to decline further service in Congress, but having recuperated his strength he was elected in 1897 Judge of the Seventh Kentucky Circuit court, which office he has filled with equal honor to himself and his profession. At the time of his death he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

ANOTHER COMPANY

Buying Oil and Mineral Privileges in the County.

Indications Point Strongly to Oil in Paying Quantities—25,000 Acres Leased.

Another new oil company has been organized here to operate in Northwest Christian.

The incorporators are Joe McCarrroll, James Breathitt, W. T. Fowler and A. P. Crockett of the local bar and W. S. Elgin, W. D. Shaw and L. G. Williams.

They have already secured mineral and oil leases on 25,000 acres of land in North Christian, extending from Pilot Rock to Todd county and eastward nearly to Crofton.

There are fine prospects for oil in many places. Along Pond river, Forbes' creek and Coal creek there are numerous oil seeps and there are also several wells in which the water is spoiled by oil and tests made of the oil have shown that it is of a fine quality.

The incorporators are enthusiastic over the outlook and are preparing to have wells sunk at once.

UP GOES WHEAT.

Drouth Causes An Advance in all Cereals.

New York, July 24.—Some interesting figures have been presented to illustrate the effects of drouth upon grain, especially wheat and corn, and stocks.

It is estimated that the present drouth has caused a shrinkage in stocks of $89,397,500, a shrinkage in wheat production of $200,000,000 bushels.

The rise in corn of 14 cents a bushel makes the present estimate of the crop worth $66,000,000 more than before the drouth.

The rise of wheat of 7 cents a bushel makes the present estimate of the crop worth $50,000,000 more than before the drouth.

He alleges in his petition that the agents of the company, without his knowledge or consent, cut down or attempted to cut down twelve topping trees on his farm in this county, in order to put up telephone posts.

HOT TUESDAY.

July 23 Warmest Day Ever Recorded Here.

Mercury Wipes Out All Records and Goes to 109 Degrees—
Other Hot Days.

The hot spell reached its culmination Wednesday, making a record of 109 degrees. All over Kentucky the mercury stood above 100. Paducah claimed the distinction of being the hottest place in the state, with a record of 112 by the government thermometer.

The record of that day in Louisville was 105.2. The following day, the 24th, was the record-breaker in Louisville, the record being 107. In this city there was a decided improvement Wednesday, the thermometer at the government station showing only 103. Yesterday was a little cooler, if the term can be used in discussing century records.

Other Hot Days.

According to former records the hottest day ever felt in Hopkinsville was August 13, 1881, when the mercury stood at 107. With this exception 1896 was the hottest summer for many years. Three different months, July, August and September, the record was up in the hundreds.

July 3 it was 103 and again Aug. 1 and 2. Aug. 3 it was 104 and Aug. 4, 105. Then on Sept. 11 and 14 it stood even 100.

In 1899 the hottest weather of the summer was in September. On Sept. 4 it was 101 and Sept. 5, 102. In 1900 August 19 was the hottest day, 102.

This year there have been already 10 or 12 century marks reached.

Notwithstanding the intense heat there have been no fatal prostrations in Hopkinsville. Several persons have been overcome by the heat, but a little care brought them around all right. Dr. J. R. Armstrong, Rev. J. T. Rushing and Mr. L. E. Fowler were among those made ill by the hot weather. They were able to resume business in a few hours.

CENSUS HEAVILY PADDED.

State Figures on Maryland's Population About 8,000 Less Than Government Return.

Washington, July 20.—The Maryland State census has been completed and shows the population to be about 8,000 less than was given the State by the Federal census through the agency of Representative Mudd's census enumerators. In Baltimore, a section of the State favorable to the Democratic party, about 8,000 persons were not counted, while in the heavy Republican legislative districts, nearly 16,000 more names appeared on the Federal census rolls than there were residents.

Apoplexy.

Just about this time of the year the poultry raiser is sometimes surprised to find one of his nicest and biggest hens dead on her nest or under the perch.
In a few days another is found, and probably another within a week. Then, if the said poultry raiser is in debt, and relying upon his poultry to help him out, he begins to feel sure his fowls have the "cholera," and great disaster is upon him, and he weeps or swears, according to his manner of expressing his innermost feelings. The facts are, there is nothing the matter with his birds excepting they are too fat for the season, and are simply dying with apoplexy.
If he is wise he will at once examine every bird he has and immediately dispose of all that are loaded with fat and heavy as lead.
If he finds an especially valuable bird in that condition, one that he desires to keep another year, he should place it in a roomy coop or pen and feed it plenty of green stuff and a very few oats. The oats should be scattered among litter of some sort, and the fowl compelled to scratch for them. Be certain that it has plenty of pure water all the time and some grit. I very much prefer to keep such birds in a large pen, where they can have considerable exercise and shade. Above all things, do not shut them up in a small coop, or they are almost certain to become affected with liver disease and die. They must have room, shade, plenty of cool water and very little grain.

Once lost a valuable cockerel by taking him off the range and placing him in a small coop three days. Lack of exercise killed him.
Another time I was changing some fowls from one pen to another, and one of the cockerels a fine large fellow, slipped past me into the wrong yard and was instantly attacked by another cockerel. They slapped each other just twice before I could close the door and get to them.
I picked the attacking bird up and dropped him over the fence, whereupon the other walked back to the door, I opened it and he stepped inside, staggered a little, then fell over and was dead in a twinkling. He had ruptured a small blood vessel on the brain.

At another time one of my cockerels flew into a buggy that was standing in the yard. I walked to it to drive him out, and when I reached the vehicle I found the bird dead as a door nail. Another time I wished to put a horse in a stable to feed. Before taking him in I glanced in the manger to see if there were any eggs in it, and noticed a hen in the act of laying. I waited outside about two minutes for her to finish the job, then stepped in and found her lying dead on the egg she had just laid.

In each of these cases the head of the bird after death was a dark purplish red, the unmistakable symptom of apoplexy.
And in each case the bird was fat and the weather very warm.
I long ago learned that if one wants eggs he must provide the fowls with a fair proportion of carbohydrate food, like corn, but if hot weather comes on he must be careful to limit the quantity they receive or they will drop off at a rate that will scare him out of his wits.—Michigan Poul-

Don't Marry.

Almost everybody remembers the celebrated advice of the London Punch, "To those about to marry, Don't." There in that advice the expression of the feeling of many a mother who says, "I hope my daughter will never marry and suffer as I have."

In ninety-eight cases in every hundred there's no need for this suffering. Doctor
Fierce's favorite Prescription cures the womanly diseases which cause wifely misery. It dries enfeebling drains, leads inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It invigorates the womanly organism, tranquilizes the nerves and gives the mother strength to give her children.

Do not allow an unscrupulous dealer to sell you something in place of "Favorite Prescription," claiming to be "just as good." There is nothing just as good for women as "Favorite Prescription."

I am so pleased with your testimonial, I heartily know what thanks to give you for kind favors," writes Mrs. M. H. Bryant, of St. Thomas, Co., Va. "You can publish my statements to the world, hoping all suffering women will know and be healed. I suffered so much with great pains in my back and the lower part of my stomach and palpitation of the heart, that at times I could hardly lie down, and could hardly get up in the morning, but after using three bottles of "Favorite Prescription," and two boxes of Dr. Fierce's Pleasant Pellets, I feel like a new woman."

Dr. Fierce's Pleasant Pellets cure sick

East Tennessee Poultry Figures.

Figures in report to the President of the Board of Trade, Morristown, Tenn., show there were billed out of their depot during the year ending Jan. 1, 1901, 309 car loads of fowls and 157 of eggs. Counting the poultry at an average of $1,100 per car and the eggs at $1,800, according to estimate made on them by one of the leading dealers, this little industry brought in $622,500 of spot cash to Hamblen and a few adjoining counties. Such does not include the shipments that are being made constantly to New Orleans, Atlanta, Baltimore and other points by express; the fancy birds at long prices breeders are sending all over the South and West for thousands of dollars worth to get to our summer resorts (one farm alone taking boarders uses $800 for its supply of fryers, eggs and hens).

We feel entirely safe in making the statement there will be an income to this small section of East Tenn., in 1901 exceeding $750,000, not allowing either for an immense quantity consumed in families.

In the first place farmers are just now beginning to realize the wonderful possibilities for profit in systematic production of poultry, to open their eyes to the fact that the most promising field of effort in reach of them has been hitherto entirely neglected; prices are ruling higher this year than last; and thrifty northern settlers familiar with best methods of poultry management are locating here.

It is perhaps useless to add that no other production furnishes the same territory so large an income.

Were all our other resources equally productive we could do Morganize Morgan.

There's no lay like the lay of the East Tenn., hen.

What Makes a Fowl Sick.

An item—parentage unidentified—yet so good and comprehensive as to be worth pasting in every poultryman's hat, was found in an exchange. It is as follows:

The most troublesome diseases of fowls, with their causes, may be summed up as follows:

Roup—Planted by "only a neglected slight cold."
Cholera—Caused principally by overcrowding.

Diarrhea—Damp houses, filthy houses and runs, and bad feeding.

Canker—Dampness and filth. Diphtheria—Roosting in draughts, also damp houses.

Ulcerated Throat—Ditto. Consumption—Neglected cold. Apoplexy, Vertigo and Epilepsy—Over-feeding.

Sore Eyes—Damp houses. Costiveness and Constipation—Improper food.

Soft and Swelled Crop—Over-feeding. Indigestion and Dyspepsia—Ditto.

Pip—Damp quarters. Bronchitis—Ditto. Black Rot—Result of indigestion.

Soft Eggs—Over-feeding. Gout, Rheumatism and Cramp—Damp houses.

Leg Weakness—Inbreeding and over-feeding. Bumble Foot—High perches. Scaly Legs—Filthy and damp quarters.

Chicken Pox—Ditto.

Big Gusher Discovered.

Louisville, Ky., July 22.—An oil well that may be termed a gusher has been discovered at Sunny Brook. The big well is spouting forth oil of fine quality at the rate of 100 barrels daily. There is great excitement over the rich find.

The last words of great men are long remembered, but the last words of little women are too numerous to Dark Brahmas.

There are many who in public and private, early and late, in place and out of place, sing, praise, and most elaborately extol their favorites. This is especially so relative to the Barred Plymouth Rock and Light Brahmas, which well the followers and admirers can consistently do, as too much cannot be said. And if to date there is anything unsaid regarding the birds, let us have it at once. We have, however, several praiseworthy birds in the Standard, outside of those just mentioned, that are sorely neglected. For example, the Dark Brahma is a bird which possesses as many good qualities as do any of the other Asiatics, still, comparatively little is seen in print and show room, of this most noble bird. Why this state of affairs exists I cannot understand. I therefore hope and wish that those who know will explain.

The main reason for certain birds having achieved greater popularity over some other standard varieties, and still hold the fort in their respective class, is not because the same birds possess exclusive merits over all the others, but more on account of certain wide-awake fanciers and breeders who have taken hold, and by persistency and hard work have pushed their respective fancy to the front, regardless of the views of others. Whether their labor has been successful, financially or otherwise, the popularity and past record of the Barred Plymouth Rock and Light Brahma does best attest.

Breeders like Feltch and Corning have made the Light Brahmas great favorites, while breeders like Hawkins, Pitkin and others have made the Barred Plymouth Rock the most popular of all fowls to-day.

Why the Dark Brahma does not hold relative popularity with the public at large, as they deserve and merit, rests entirely with those who have bred them in time past. Breeders of the Dark Brahma, as a class, must be dead or nearly so, as they are but seldom seen or heard from.

I have often heard remarked: "Why, I would like to breed the Dark Brahma; I like them; the birds are handsome; but I will not take hold of them because the bird is one too hard to breed up to standard requirements," etc.

Which is only a false impression or conception, gotten up by some few who failed through lack of care, and indifference of the breed's requirements, or by some who have never bred the Dark Brahma, or merely for the sake of saying something against the breed and to appear wise, and for the sake of appearing their own favorites. Come to facts, we all know that it is no child's play to breed high scoring, typical birds of any standard, parti-colored breed, without care and system in mating. Close to 90 per cent. of my Dark Brahmas last season scored 90 or better, and, judging from appearance, the per cent this season will be even greater, and from single mating, too.

I now wish that those who are opposed to the Dark Brahma to give one tangible reason for the faith within them. Is it because in your vision there is nothing in the breed or one not handsome to look at? In either case I beg to differ. For instance, take the male, with his full and glossy black feathered breast; his silvery white back, with black and saddle feathers black centered, also laced a silvery white, and a tail well filled with green-black curling feathers. Then take the female, with her silver-laced hackle and steel-gray, distinctly colored pencilling throughout. She is a thing of beauty, unexcelled. What is finer than a well-bred, well-kept Dark Brahma?

The Dark Brahma, as nature intended, taking its fountain head from whence they spring for basis, the breed should be, or rather, the happy medium between the Light Brahma and Partridge Cochins in general.

The year 1816 was a year with-out a summer, but this is not 1816.

There are 915 street railways in the United States. Why should not Hopkinsville have the 900th?

The negro population is a little over 9,000,000, an increase of 21 per cent in ten years.

Paducah seems to take pride in the claim that she is the "warmest baby in the bunch."

A mild case of the bubonic plague has been discovered at New York. The patient is a stoker on a steamer.

A St. Louis Judge broke the record by granting a divorce in 46 minutes from the time the suit was filed.

Man E. O'Sullivan is back at his old post as editor of the Louisville Critic, which has absorbed the Free Lance.

Gov. Beckham will have the appointment of another circuit judge, in the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Goodnight.

Mrs. David R. Murray, wife of the Adjutant General of the State, died at Cloverport Monday. Gen. Murray himself is still very ill.

The people all over Missouri prayed for rain last Sunday. They will get it, but the Lord will send it in his own good time.

Wm. H. Hunt, son of the former Secretary of the Navy of the same name born in Louisiana in 1857, will succeed Cha. H. Allen as governor of Porto Rico.

O. W. Lawson, formerly of Barford & Lawson, has written from Mexico that he is innocent of the charge of spending $43,000 of the army's money.

Gov. Beckham has honored a requisition from the Governor of Indiana for the return to that State of William M. Walton, a fugitive from justice. Walton was a used in Grant county, Ind., for murder.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the other few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally, it cures from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O., Louisville, Ky.

Difficult Digestion

That is dyspepsia. It makes life miserable. Its sufferers eat not because they want to, but because they must. They know they are irritable and fretful; but they cannot be otherwise. They complain of a bad taste in the mouth, a tenderness at the pit of the stomach, an uneasy feeling of puffiness, headache, heartburn and what not. The effective remedy, proved by permanent cures of thousands of severe cases, is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Hood's Pills are the best cathartic.

Although our subscription rates are cash in advance, there are upon our books a number of patrons who have been subscribers for years and whose dates are not accurately kept in mind. As the years glide by they sometimes forget to renew and we find we are accumulating a considerable list of delinquents including some of the best people in the county. Fortunately there are not many of these, but there are still enough to represent quite a little sum of "back dues" that we need in our business at this dull season of the year. If you happen to be one of these—and your label will show—can't you strain a point and liquidate before it rains and makes the roads too muddy for you to come to town? It is not often that we discuss these delicate little matters with our readers, but under the circumstances we are sure the most sensitive of them will excuse us. Come in and let us sell you an autograph receipt.

The brutal assault on Schley by Historian Maclay, a pet of Sampson, is liable to make Schley a greater hero than ever. Schley will demand an inquiry and will bring libel suits against Maclay and others who conspired to destroy his good name. Sampson, it develops, read the offensive language in advance of its publication. Capt. Evans and others have taken a firm stand for Schley and the popular outburst of enthusiasm for Schley is greatly worrying Sampson. The public mind is already firmly fixed in favor of the man who was there when the Spanish fleet was destroyed, and not fifteen miles away.

Deboe has returned from Canton and is confident Sapp will hold on as Collector. The President is quoted as saying he will not remove Sapp unless Roberts, Combs, Boring, Irwin and Deboe agree upon his successor. As the two last named are "Sapp or bust," there is no likelihood of a throw down for the little boss.

Schley has nothing to fear from the most rigid investigation. He was there when the battle began and there when it ended, and the damage sustained by the Brooklyn showed that she was at all times the chief target of the Spanish guns. Sampson is the man who will suffer.

Arizona is having a summer fresher, which came just in time to save the pastures and crops. The Gila River is out of its banks. At any rate it is a pleasure to read about these things, even 3000 miles away.

Miss Ellen Lee, oldest daughter of Pittsburgh Lee, has married Lieut. Jas. C. Rhea, a young army officer from Iowa, and they have gone to Cuba, where Lieut. Rhea's regiment is stationed.

Professor Koch, the famous German scientist, makes the startling announcement that bovine tuberculosis is not transmissible to human beings and that consumption is not hereditary.

Pat Ruler, a colored leader of standing in the Republican party, is an independent candidate for jailer in Ohio county, as a result of frauds in the county primary election.

P. Hooker Reed after all has served notice of contest on Jas. F. Grinstead, his successful opponent in the Republican primary for the majority nomination in Louisville.

FROM CERULEAN.

This Popular Pleasure Resort
Crowded with Society People.

Louisville, Hopkinsville, Paducah, Pembroke, Texas and Many Other Points Represented.

The season is at its height at Cerulean. Youth and beauty reign supreme. The past week has been unusually gay. The dancing hall is the attraction and the followers of Terpichore find opportunities galore for indulging in this fascinating pastime. Mr. Jim McKeage, of Clarksville, takes the whole bakery as a graceful, easy dancer. Misses Edna Parsons, of Louisville, and Maggie Settle, of Clarksville, Tenn., are the most graceful dancers on the floor. Their dancing is the very poetry of motion and it is a pleasure to the guests to watch these fairy forms trip the light fantastic, and applause from the gallery is frequent. They are exceedingly attractive girls, fascinating to a degree and easily carry off the honors as belles of the Springs. Miss Parsons, gowns are exceptionally stylish and swell. Though simple they are choice and are very French. She is a dainty little maiden, with a natty pretty figure and is universally admired. There is a large number of Hopkinsville people here and the ladies are carrying all before them. Metaphorically speaking, they are daily petted with roses, and are universally pronounced handsome, bright and charming.

Pembroke too is well represented, and there have been no more delightful guests than those from this well known little town. Mrs. Walter Radford, of Pembroke, has been pronounced one of the handsomest matrons and is very popular.

Paducah too, is well represented. Mrs. W. E. Cave, wife of the popular pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Paducah, is considered one of the most attractive young married ladies. She is a beautiful woman, of charming personality and is exceedingly bright. Mrs. Joe Buckner, wife of the popular clerk, Mrs. Wheeler Cantrill, Mrs. Thomas G. Dade, Mrs. Mark Moore and Mrs. McWhorter are too, among the charming matrons. They are delightfully agreeable, bright and fascinating.

Miss Julia Scott, of Paducah, was a guest of the springs for several days and delighted all with her beautiful voice. She is a charming woman, with graceful manners, soft of speech, vivacious and extremely bright. Her voice is far above the average, sweet, rich and full and charmed delighted audiences every evening. She is greatly missed by all.

Mrs. R. L. Ellison, of Fort Worth, Texas, is a reigning favorite. Gentle, sympathetic and unselfish, she is the friend of all. The young people call her "Mother Ellison" and her sweet influence is felt by all.

But in my enthusiasm over the charms of the fair sex I must not overlook the fascinating specimens of the Genus Homo who add so much to the general pleasure.

Conspicuous among these attractive lords of creation are W. A. Yates, J. Heberle, Messrs. Hannett, McKenke and a host of others. These gentlemen are entertaining and agreeable to a degree and the girls pronounce them "just too sweet for anything." Col. H. M. Crump, of Bowling Green, is spending the Sabbath at this delightful resort, resting from his labors.

The Colonel is a host in himself. He is exceptionally bright and agreeable, with genial cordial manners. He is the only man on the grounds that can out-talk a woman.

and that is drawing it mildly. Another very popular guest, who has been here for sometimes Dr. Bacon, of Evansville, Ind. In the words of James Lane Allen, it can be said of the Doctor, that "his entire character rests on the noiseless conviction that he is a man—and a gentleman."

Of course there is the usual amount of flirting, probably more. The romantically inclined wander down the path to the spring and indulge in fantastic sentimentalities to a Queen's taste. "They woo and they coo like the little doves do" and who shall say them nay? Of course Paul Pry is very much in evidence and the lovers who whisper and nothings "In the gloaming" had better keep a lookout for this far sighted gentleman. Many weddings are prophesied. "When the leaves begin to turn" as a result of these romantic flirtations.

Heartburn.

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality torrid, heartburn is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let six hours elapse between meals and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, indication that you have eaten too much, take one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the heartburn will be avoided. For sale by all druggists.

The Best Remedy for Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

"I have been in the drug business for twenty years and have sold most, all of the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles," says O. W. Wakefield, of Columbus, Ga. "This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasurable form. No family should be without it. I keep it in my house at all times." For sale by all druggists.

Monster Sacred Concert.

The monster Sacred Concert of the Second Fall Festival in Cincinnati next September 22nd united the two weeks of the Queen City's Festival time in a glorious burst of melody to speak. Last year it is estimated four thousand people were turned away unable to gain admission even to the great Foyer of Music Hall.

This year's programme embraces selections which will bring out the full strength of the immense Festi-Chorus-one thousand voices and the great Cincinnati Orchestra of sixty instruments.

Four of the soloists already secured are Mable Dufour, Ellen Bell Martin, A. F. Malah and Joseph Schenke, the "Silver voice tenor." The young ladies are popular Cincinnati girls, but widely known as

GRAND JURY

Will Investigate the Case of Hulen Wagoner.

The Case of Hulen Wagoner, col., charged with the theft of a bicycle belonging to Mr. Geo. W. Phelps, was called in the city court Wednesday. Defendant waived examination and was held over to the grand jury. In default of bond he was sent back to jail.

In Testimony of Richard M. Pierce, July 13th it pleased God to send the Death Angel into the home of Mrs. Moore, at Stamford, Texas, where he was boarding, and bear from the embrace of an affectionate father and a loving brother who had gone to do all in their power to comfort their poor, sick, loving son and brother.

Dick, as he was familiarly known, was a kind and loving boy. He was loved by all who knew him. Oh! how my heart goes out in sympathy for his loving father and devoted mother. Alas, Dick has gone, gone forever from this world of joys and schoolmates, who had learned to love him so dearly. Richard was a member of the Methodist Church, which he joined in early life and his last words were "Papa I am trusting in Jesus." Oh! how sad to think of our dear friend and to know that his merry ringing voice and welcome footsteps can never be heard any more. He leaves a father and a devoted mother, two loving sisters and four brothers to mourn his loss. How they will miss him at their homes.

But in the darkness of the shadow of death we humbly bow in submission to the will of him that doeth all things well. His Schoolmate, L.S.

TYSON HEIRS WILL MEET.

Will Gather in Fort Worth, Tex., Next August and Will Arrange For Distribution.

Fort Worth, Tex., July 24.—There will be a meeting held in this city August 13 of the Tyson heirs for the purpose of arranging for the distribution of the vast fortune left by John Tyson, who died in Melbourne, Australia, two years ago, leaving an estate said to be valued at $52,000,000, about one-half of which is in cash in the Bank of England, the balance being railroad and mining stock and realty in Melbourne. The call for the meeting was issued by Thomas U. and William Tyson, nephews of the deceased, and is being mailed to all heirs who are known to them, being twenty all told, four of whom live in Texas, two in this city and two in Johnson county.

Thomas Tyson said to-day that United States Senator Charles A. Culberson would be retained to assist in the settling of the big estate. The meeting is to be held at the State National Bank here.

A brother of the dead man, who now resides at Trenton, Ky., will be here to attend the meeting.

DROPPED DEAD.

Native of Christian County Dies Suddenly in Nashville.

Mr. R. W. DeBow, formerly of this county, dropped dead Tuesday night at his home in Nashville. Mr. DeBow was apparently in good health up to a few minutes before his death, and died almost instantly after being stricken. Heart failure is supposed to have been the cause of death. Mr. DeBow was 50 years old, and is survived by his wife and several children. He was a huckster and had been living in Nashville for about fifteen years, having moved from this city to that place. He was raised near Bainbridge, this county, and was at one time engaged in business on West Seventh street in this city.

DWELLING DESTROYED

By Fire While Occupants Were Away From Home.

The dwelling of the Charles Griffey, col., of the Sinking Fork neighborhood, was burned last Monday. Griffey had come to town to sell blackberries and his wife had gone to the field to gather berries. When the latter started back to the house she discovered the building on fire. All of the furniture and provisions were consumed. The supposition is that the flames originated from the cook stove. Griffey's loss is several hundred dollars. He had no insurance.

These graces are the right—aye duty of every woman until the hair whitens—and regal dignity replaces them.

The mother who guards her strength has so much more to devote to the care and education of her dear ones. She should be a comfort—a cheer—always.

Yet how many feel that they have the strength to properly balance the home? The world is restless, weary and morbid. Its blood moves sluggishly and is full of impurities. It needs a kindling, invigorating tonic to set it afire—it needs Peruna.

THE ONE MEDICINE

In the world which women may rely upon positively, Peruna is good for everyone, but particularly for women. The various weaknesses which afflict their delicate organism spring from inflammation of the mucous lining, and Peruna is a specific for catarrh in any organ of the body. Any congestion of a mucous membrane simply means catarrh of the organ affected. This is why Peruna cures all sorts of troubles where other remedies fail. If there is a catarrhal ailment the matter with you anywhere Peruna will cure you.

GREEN CUT BONE.

The Cheapest of All Foods and One of the Best for Egg-Production.

It must not be overlooked that a bone "cutter" is not a bone "mill." A bone mill cannot grind a green bone, though it can easily reduce a dry bone to powder, but a bone cutter will cut green or dry bones. There is also a difference in feeding value between green bones and dry bones. They vary more than green apples and dry apples. Their chemical composition is not the same and one is more digestible than the other.

The value of an article is not estimated according to weight, but in accordance with the objects desired from its use. If substances are used for food their real value depends upon the proportions of digestible nutrients contained, and the value of the nutrients depends upon the relative proportions of nitrogen, lime, starch, and fat.

There is a wide difference even in green bones. Some have more natural juices (solvents), and some are richer in nitrogen than others. The egg requires lime for the bones of the chick, also phosphoric acid. The nitrogen is to build up the structure around the bones, such as the muscles, liver, heart, nerves, sinews, etc. The starch and fat produce heat and motion, respiration being essential to oxidize the carbonaceous matter in order to produce warmth.

If an egg did not contain the substances mentioned no chick could be produced, and if the hen did not receive food containing nitrogen and lime she could not produce eggs. She can cost herself by using starch and fat, as such substances exist plentifully in all foods, especially the grains, but there are times when she cannot secure the lime and nitrogen, so she waits until she accumulates enough of those substances and then she lays and waits for the next supply. If lime and nitrogen are abundant she will lay every day, but if not she will lay every other day or twice a week, not at all.

When the hen gets plenty of grain she cannot dispose of the surplus starch and fat unless she has sufficient nitrogen from some source to balance the great abundance of carbonaceous matter, hence the fat is stored on her body and after a while the hen will cease to lay because she has become too fat. Her organs are obstructed with fat, and she is diseased. She attempts to get rid of the imperfect eggs, or rather nature endeavors to do so, but they have no shells, or two of them will have the same shell (double yolks), or at times time the eggs may be very small. She will sit on the nest for hours, or on the roost, but she cannot perform her natural functions because she is too fat, and she is too fat because she did not get enough nitrogen and lime in proportion to the amount of starch and fat received.

A bone consists of phosphate of lime, water, and nitrogenous matter, as well as more or less fat, according to the kind of bone. There is about four pounds of nitrogen in one hundred pounds of green bone, but this nitrogen is nearly all eliminated when bone becomes very dry. This pure nitrogen is worth fifteen cents per pound as a fertilizer on the soil, but is, of course, more valuable as food.

Bone, being phosphate of lime, contains lime in abundance, and as a bone is a very hard substance, it will serve as grit when not too fine for adults, although it may be as fine as desired for chicks. There is almost no lime at all in wheat and corn, hence no materials in those grains for assisting the hens to form the shells of eggs, and one pound of bone contains more bone-forming elements than any other food.

Bones are cheap, as they can be obtained at much less than their real value. They are worth fifteen dollars per ton when used on the land as fertilizer, and they are frequently given away. But why are they thus disposed of? Simply because the farmer or poultryman does not know their value and because they are not sufficiently wise to use bone cutters. Just as soon as the farmer procures a bone cutter he is then willing to pay for the bones, and yet bones are cheaper than wheat at all seasons, even at double the price of wheat per pound.

But why are bones cheaper than wheat? Because the bones are rich in nitrogen and lime—not one substance, but both—and they make the hens lay. It is the results—the eggs obtained—that gives the real value to a food. Wheat and corn at ten cents per bushel are very expensive if the hens do not lay.

Bone is grit. It is hard and sharp, and assists the gizzard to reduce all other foods. Bone puts the gizzard at work and allows the fowls to follow the directions of nature. Mica grit is of course also excellent, but it is not food. Bone is both grit and food because it can be digested.

All foods should be ground fine by the gizzard. That is what the gizzard is for. Let it work. If the bone is cut with a bone cutter to a condition in which it can be swallowed by the hens, the gizzard will complete the work.

The farmer knows that the feed cutter and grain mill are essential to the keeping of his cattle. He expects milk and beef in return for his labor. Eggs (more than in proportion to cost) are the product of the hen, and she must have the lime and nitrogen in her food, fresh from the butcher, with their natural juices abounding in nitrogen and lime in abundance, be cut up with a bone mill and fed to poultry.

A bone mill will pay for itself in eggs the first season. Bone mills have now been so highly improved that the labor of cutting the bone has been reduced to a minimum, and the prices are within the reach of all. The more lean meat and the less fat on the bones the better. Even the dry bones may be ground and used, for they are also valuable. They may be ground as fine as desired and will be highly relished, but there is no food cheaper, better, or surer than the bone fresh from the butcher, and the fowls will crowd each other in their eagerness to secure the wholesome and palatable pieces.—Poultry Keeper.

Formula Used by Dealers in Preserving Eggs.

Numerous methods of preserving eggs are in use. The idea of all of them is to keep air out of the eggs, as by such absence of oxygen decay can be arrested for a considerable length of time, especially if the eggs are perfectly fresh at the start and are kept in a cool, dark place. The standard method most used by speculators and dealers is to put eggs in lime water. The process is as follows: this recipe having been widely sold at $5 under pledge of secrecy:

Take two gallons of water, twelve pounds of unslaked lime and four of salt, or in that proportion according to the quantity of eggs to be preserved. Stir several times daily and then let stand until the liquid has settled and is perfectly clear. Draw or carefully dip off the clear liquid, leaving the sediment at the bottom.

Take for the above amount of liquid five ounces each of baking soda, cream of tartar, salt peter and an ounce of alum. Pulverize and mix these and dissolve in one gallon of boiling water and add to the mixture about twenty gallons of pure lime water. Put the eggs in carefully so as not to crack any of the shells, letting the water always stand an inch above the eggs, which can be done by placing a barrel head a little smaller upon them and weights upon it. This amount of liquid will preserve 150 dozen of eggs. It is not necessary to wait to get a full barrel or smaller package of eggs, but they can be put in any time that they can be obtained fresh. The same liquid should be used only once.—Michigan Tradesman.

A limited supply of green food given to fowls that are penned, will be a great help in bringing them through the moult, as well as opening the bowels and cooling the blood.

READ THIS.
Hopkinsville, Ky., June 7, 1901.
Dr. E. W. Hall, St. Louis, Mo.
Dear Sir:—I suffered ten years with severe kidney and bladder troubles and at times was unable to work. I was advised to try your Texas Wonder and after using one-fourth of one bottle I passed a large gravel and I have never suffered since passing the same three years ago, and I have recommended it to many others who reported themselves cured. I most heartily recommend it to all sufferers from kidney or bladder diseases.

TRACED FROM ADAM.

Marvelous Genealogical Line of a Chicago Couple, Used in a Story, is Genuine.

Popular interest in Albert Judson Fisher's unique love-story, "A Daughter of Adam," in The Ladies Home Journal for August, has been increased tenfold since it became known that the genealogical part of the story is not fiction, but fact. Not only is the marvelous line of descent, traced through 121 generations from Adam and Eve, absolutely genuine, but also the family names of the characters are the names of real people, for the line is actually that of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith Sargent, of Chicago, and Mrs. Sargent was formerly Miss Frances Moore, of Warren, Rhode Island. Even stranger still is the fact that, as shown in the story, Mr. and Mrs. Sargent had the same ancestor eight generations back.

BIG SEWER CONTRACT.

The Seventeenth street sewer is under contract to be extended 1000 feet to a point across Canton Street. Twyman have the contract to do the brick work.

New Hotel at Dawson Springs.

Madisonville, Ky., July 19.—Articles of incorporation for the Dawson Springs Hotel company were filed at the county clerk's office here yesterday afternoon. The incorporators are W. L. Hamby, George M. Price and J. E. Hayes. The capital stock is $25,000, divided into 250 shares at a par value of $100 each. This company will erect a fine hotel at Dawson, on the Illinois Central railroad. Work will begin in August. A new well has also been bored.

"Cleanliness is next to Godliness." Dirt and depravity go hand in hand. This is just as true of the inside of the body as the outside. Constipation clogs the body and clouds the mind. Constipation means that corruption is breeding in the body, poisoning the blood with its foul emanations, befogging the brain with its tainted exhalations. Constipation is the beginning of more diseases than, perhaps, any other single disorder. The consequences of constipation are region. Headache, pain in the side, shortness of breath, undue fullness after eating, coldness of the extremities, nervousness, indigestion, lassitude, dizziness, sallowness, flatulence, and a score of other ailments are directly caused by constipation. Cure constipation and cure its consequences. The quickest cure of this evil is obtained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are small in size but wonderful in result. They cure permanently. They contain no injurious ingredients. The use of them does not beguile the "pill habit." Ask your druggist for them.

Send 21 one-cent stamps, the express of mailing only, and receive Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers. The work contains 1008 pages and 700 illustrations. For 31 stamps it can be had in substantial cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Bowel Trouble in Chicks.

Millions of chicks die of bowel trouble. In most cases the cause is over-feeding and the same feed at every meal. Do not feed until thirty-six hours old. Feed oat meal flakes for the first meal, then when the crop is empty feed dry bread crumbs, next cracked corn, then millet and all kinds of cracked grain. Give a different food at each meal and never feed until the crops are empty. Boiled milk and milk curd may be fed every day. Free range should be given every day, and especially after the fourth day.—John M. Sontag in American Poultry Journal.

How Much Bone?

There is no fixed rule for feeding green bone. An ounce per hen, once a day, is frequently suggested, but it may be better with some flocks to give less or more. If a hen is laying she requires more than a non-producer. If the hens are fat they should have less grain and more bone. Again, some pieces of bone contain fat or marrow fat. In such cases it will be an advantage to boil the bone until the fat is removed, provided the hens are in high condition. We believe an ounce a day, decreasing the amount of grain food, is ample.—Poultry Record.

Neal Munro, of Hubrey, near London, owns a hen of the Black Spanish breed, which is 16 years old. Eight years ago she changed her glossy black coat to one of the purest white; two years ago she became half black and half white, and last fall she again became pure white.—Canadian Poultry Review.

A Few Belgian Hare Hys.

All manner of questions are asked in regard to every new industry that springs up in this country, and as the breeding of Belgians is in its infancy, and really very new to the average man, woman and child, very naturally those questions are popping up all around. About the first question that comes to us is, "Are they good to eat?" Yes. But says one woman, catching her breath, "I could not eat rabbit." Right there is the sticking point with so many who are averse to the eating of the common rabbit or cotton tail. We want to right your minds on this very point. When you eat a common rabbit you get a rank, gamey or wild flavor that is distasteful to so many.

You turn to the well-raised and well-fatted Belgian hare, roasted to perfection, and you at once have that delicate flavor and texture of flesh like a combination of the frog leg and the finest broiled young chicken. Those who have had the chance to try them know full well the palatableness of this new meat and are anxious to get it whenever the opportunity presents itself. As I heard the wife of a wealthy man say one time, "I told Henry that whenever he could get a nice dressed Belgian we would look no further for meat that day, for I had rather have them than any meat I know of." And she voiced the very sentiments of three-fourths of those who have ever tried them. They are good. But says another, "Can they be raised?" Just as easily as chickens or calves. They are like everything else—there is a certain per cent of loss on an average. In other words, they are thoroughly practical and easy to raise.

But says another woman, "My boy wants to try them, do you think he could do anything with them?" That is just the point we are after, for old people and boys, young ladies, or any one, they are always ready and respond quickly to good treatment.

There is nothing in my judgment so well calculated to the demands of the boy in the city or on the farm as this little animal and as my friend, Jolly, has said, "It will keep the boys off the street and you will know where they are." And that is worth dollars to you. Let your boys have money enough to get them a good start in Belgians, and you will find them soon making a start on a bank account.

What will they do with them when they get them raised? Sell them to their friends and neighbors, and a small advertisement in the paper will work the matter up for them. Those that are not fancy enough for the breeding market will be in good demand on the home table or at the meat shop at remunerative prices. The increase from one pair (if you are at all successful) for a year will set all your doubts to one side, as to whether they will pay for the trouble and expense.

I do not believe in looking at a new business on a boom or extravagant basis, but on the contrary am rather inclined to be conservative and want to know the why and wherefore.

But I see no reasonable excuse why the Belgians have not come to stay, and have a welcome stay, that, so far they have had readers for all the good stock that has been offered. In fact, I think the business is being established along more substantial lines and by a better class of breeders than some at least who had them in their infancy. Breeders now are inclined to give the purchaser full value for his money. An evil that is inclined to come into this, as well as the poultry business, by a great many going into it for the first time is purchasing a cheap grade of stock with the idea in view that anything is good enough to begin with, and especially for the boys. That is just where so many miss it. The boys should be made to feel that they have first-class stock and when they get a customer they feel that they are prepared to please him. It need not be necessary to be extravagant in buying, but avoid culls. A lady who has raised the other day looking for stock for her son and I told her she had the right idea. She said she wanted to get something that her boy would be proud to take care of. That should be the motto of all who buy.

Newsy Items from the Neighborhood of Hawkins.

Hawkins, Ky., July 22.—Crops are suffering badly in this locality for want of rain, it being almost too late for corn. Tobacco is looking very well yet.

The Sunday School at Mt. Carmel is progressing nicely. Mr. R. A. Cline makes us a good Supt., always being at his post of duty, giving good advice and instruction to all.

Our correspondent to the Messenger from Hawkins has been passing some insinuations on our candidate for county clerk, J. L. J. Pool, but knowing his ability to fill the office and his popularity as a man we do not hesitate to say that now is the time for that great, grand and noble paper to pass such insinuations, for after the election it will be too late.

There has been quite a stir in this vicinity for several days, the people having seen some very large tracks and heard some peculiar sounds which always frightens the poor old women and children. But fortunately just as the crisis came the animal was captured near J. R. Keys' and upon being brought to light it was found to be a member of the Court House King running for representative.

It is thought now that Rev. Geo. Davis, of Macedonia, will be the nominee of the Democratic Fusion Ticket for magistrate.

BLACK HERO

Saves a Lady And Three Children at Peril of His Own Life.

Water Valley, Miss., July 22.—Mrs. J. B. Whitney and three small children were saved from probable death yesterday by a real negro hero. The party occupied a vehicle, hitched to which was a horse that became frightened and ran away. Spectators, considering it impossible to render aid, made no attempt to do so, but turned from the awful tragedy that seemed imminent.

At this juncture Elsie Early, colored, threw herself in front of the maddened animal. A great crowd of dust arose as the horse seemed to be trampling the man to death, but they had not gone a block when it was seen that Early had grasped the bridle bit and was holding on with tiger-like tenacity while being dragged between the horse's feet. The weight of the man at its mouth soon checked the horse's speed, it was surrounded and stopped, the colored man holding on to the tail. Early was roundly cheered by the crowd, and a liberal purse was made up for him.

HOUSE BURNED.

Junius Southern, the Colored Democrat, Suffers Heavy Loss.

The dwelling house of Junius Southern, a cottage of four rooms, a few miles west of town on the Canton pike, was destroyed by fire Tuesday about noon. Southern was in town at the time and no one was at home excepting his wife, who had gone to the spring about a quarter of a mile away. When she returned she found the house in flames. It had caught from the fire started in the kitchen to cook dinner.

It was impossible to save much from the house. Only a few bed-clothes were rescued. In less than ten minutes the house and contents were reduced to ashes.

Southern is a reputable and thrifty colored man, who owned the house and one acre of ground, the accumulations of a lifetime. Until recently he had been employed at the Asylum, but lost his position a few weeks ago. He was one of the few colored men in the county who voted and worked for the Democratic tickets in 1899 and 1900 and it was largely due to his work that his precinct, a Republican stronghold, went Democratic in 1899. Southern had $500 insurance on the house and contents. He estimates his loss at $800.

Five stitches were necessary to close the wound.
